KENTUCKY

Eastern Kentucky goes dark after second winter storm. Residents left without basics.

BY LIZ MOOMEY AND BILL ESTEP
FEBRUARY 16, 2021 01:21 PM,

Ice hung from trees in Eastern Kentucky on Feb. 14, 2021, leaving thousands of people. MARY ANN STACY. MARY ANN STACY

Multiple counties from northeastern Kentucky with widespread electricity outages Tuesday as volunteers to get medicine and kerosene to residents and downed trees to fix power lines.

Just after 4 p.m. Tuesday, there were about 1 million people in Kentucky, according to poweroutage.us, why

ENVIRONMENT OHIO VALLEY RESOURCE March 18, 2021

Katrina Bostrin had never seen the lake come up that quickly before. In county, Kentucky, her garage was flooded out a foot, where Katrina Bostrin had celebrated her 50th birthday. She celebrated in the room, named in the room.

February the day she lost her two sons. "The next day we had to go to the hospital."
