

A map of Illinois divided into its 102 counties. The counties are colored based on the number of years since the last census. The colors range from light yellow (1-4 years) to dark red (10+ years). The map shows that the central and southern parts of the state have been more recently censused, while the northern and western parts have not been censused for a longer period.

Data Source – American Community Survey 2013–2017, US Census Bureau
Mapped by Tsuru Consulting under CDC Cooperative Agreement number 1NU1ROT000018–00
White background represents missing or suppressed data