

CSTE Career Panel: Emerging Career Paths in Applied Epidemiology

Friday, April 7, 2pm ET

Council of State and Territorial Epidemiologists

Housekeeping

- Mute your lines
- The slides and session recording will be archived to the CSTE Webinar Library
- Use the chat box feature to ask the panelists questions
- Complete your evaluation after the webinar
 - Webinar feedback
 - Ideas for future webinars

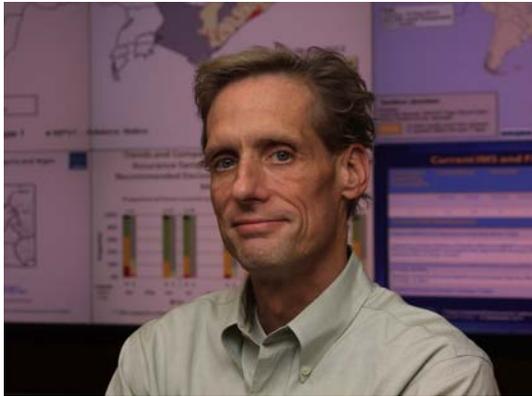

Objectives

After the webinar, participants will be able to:

1. Discuss at least two aspects of an applied epidemiology career path.
2. Describe emerging career opportunities for epidemiologists.
3. Identify at least two valuable skills relevant to professional opportunities in applied epidemiology.

Panelists

Greg Armstrong, MD
Director, Office of Advanced Molecular Detection
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Sam Horwich-Scholefield, MPH, CIC
Antimicrobial Use and Resistance Coordinator
California Department of Health

Tess Konen, MPH
Senior Epidemiologist
Minnesota Department of Health

Danica Kuncio, MPH
Viral Hepatitis Epidemiologist
Philadelphia Department of Public Health

Jennifer Sabel, PhD
Epidemiologist 3
Washington State Department of Health

Closing

- Thank you for attending today's Career Panel.
- Complete your evaluations as you exit the webinar
 - Feedback on the webinar
 - Ideas for future webinars